

JACQUES LARRIERU, Professor at Law, University of Toulouse, FR

Jacques LARRIERU, professor of business law, University Toulouse 1 Capitole (France). Main fields of interest: intellectual property, law of computers and law of the Internet, contract law, law of property. Ph.D degree in law (1984, Contracts of consulting engineering), he became a full professor in 1990 (University of French West Indies, University of Toulouse). He has been a visiting professor and scholar or took part in conferences in several foreign universities (Japan, USA, Vietnam, Argentina, Morocco, Tunisia, Ivory Coast, Thailand,...). He is in charge of the Master 2 Intellectual Property and of the Federative Institute of Research (IFR Mutations des Normes Juridiques) which federates all the law laboratories of the University and runs conferences. He handles the review about the law of computers (Daloz) and about unfair competition and other protections in the Industrial Property law journal (LexisNexis). He has published numerous articles in several specialized publications. The last books he published is "Le droit de l'Internet" (Ellipses, 2010), "Crise(s) et Droit" (dir., LGDJ, 2012), "Les métamorphoses de la marque" (dir. LGDJ, 2011).